

THE APPLICATION

When responding to an advertised position, it's a good idea to either call or email the consultant listed in the advert directly to express your interest. It's much better to be selective than to flood the market with your CV.

Take ownership of your application, and don't be bullied.